“Abbey "Mama" was such an amazing part of our family! She first came to me as a stray. She was underweight, riddled with worms, and pregnant! While nursing her back to health she undoubtedly taught me some of the most valuable life lessons about love and patience.

With Abbey I had to earn everything. I had to earn her trust and her love! It took nearly 2 years before she willingly came to me for pets and would sleep in bed at my feet. She loved her petting sessions so much she would often drool from being so content and happy!

Even though she was so distrustful of adults at first, she had such a soft spot in her heart for the children. She would sit on the couch above their head and give them head butts. If they were sitting at the table doing homework she would jump up and rub herself in their faces until they took a mandatory break for pets!

She is greatly missed! And we are left hoping she knew how much we loved and adored her! We love you Mama and so sorry you are gone! We will never forget you!
