“ Frankie, I have been pondering of what to say but I am at such a loss. I miss you so much. My heart aches. The day we met you at petland in irwin, we went to check out another dog. Fortunately, that dog was aggressive towards Cookie. You caught my eye and those big ears melted my heart. So we brought you out to meet Cookie. You two didn't even sniff each other. You just did your own thing. We went home that evening wondering if a second dog was for us. Saturday came and we were still undecided. Saturday evening we decided that you would become part of our family but we had to wait until Sunday because it was too far of a drive before they closed. Eric brought you home Sunday morning. You and Cookie immediately hit it off. After a few days, we noticed a cough. Took you to one vet and they blew it off. That wasn't good enough for us. Another vet put you on a steroid and you became mean. We finally took you to cranberry holistic where it was determined you had chronic bronchitis and it would never go away. That never stopped you though. You were our little spitfire. Always happy, running around, herding Cookie into the house, and the thing you did best - cuddle. Your cuddles were the best. You would find any teeny tiny spot and squeeze into it just so you could be close to us. You always found Eric's or my chest to stretch on because there was obviously nowhere else you could possibly stretch. You always gave kisses. When I would take you for a walk, you got so excited, you would just whelp and bark so loud. It got all the dogs in the neighborhood barking. You loved walks but also couldn't wait to go back home. You were such a homebody. You were my funny little buddy. Always made me laugh. Always made me feel better no matter what. You were so loved and I hope you knew that. We tried everything to get you better. I promise you that. I will NEVER forget you. Cookie and Hobo-licious miss you too. Love you Frankie.
