Well it's been a little over a week and still can't handle not having you. I am trying to act like everything is getting better but it's not. I miss you so bad. Angel and Casey are crying and still looking everywhere for you. I have you home and can't look at you yet all I do is cry. I just hope you no how much you were loved and missed . I talk to you everyday just hoping yoy hear me. LOVE you my Neko.

i miss you so much my baby. there isnt a minute out of the day im not thinking of you and what youre doing up there. im not sure what im doing with out you, it feels like a ghost town in this house without your howling and brfing but I hope you take time to help ease the pain up there as you did when you were with us. you are the most perfect dog and best friend i could ever ask for even though i annoyed you with my constant kisses and cuddling most of the time. i love you so much and even though im hurting right now, im happy you are at peace. until we meet again my neekie, my peekie, my chicken wing, my peeko, my peekster, my neko.

Words can't even describe how lost I am with out you. When I walk in the door ur not there to greet me and give me ur puppy dog kisses. Your not there to be my Warden when someone gets to close, no more howling when the phone rings or when you hear sirens, there's no more brring when someone's in your personal space,no more sleeping head to head on the couch and you sneak in a kiss.I know you are in no more pain,you can run free and keep me safe from up above. I will always love you and never forget the joy you brought to my life I never realized how much I needed you untill you where gone. Rest in peace my baby.
