“ Rocco was the most gentle soul as a dog could be. We had Rocco for almost two years when my daughter and wife brought home an Italian Greyhound named Caesar. Now Rocco was laid back and Caesar was a little fireball. Caesar would want to play with Rocco, but sometimes he would nip at Rocco's hind legs. Rocco, the gentleman that he was would not retaliate, but he would look at me for help. So, I taught him to sit on Caesar, whenever he would nip at his hind legs. After a while, Caesar quit nipping Rocco's legs. I must admit, it was quite funny how Rocco would just sit down on Caesar, but they became big brother and little brother until Rocco's passing. Caesar hasn't stopped looking for Rocco outside since.

“ Rocco was always such a sweet dog. He was so smart and always well behaved. Although there was that one time he pooped on a present during Christmas, I always thought of it as a sign that he just had a sense of humor. RIP, Rocco. You'll always be a very good boy ❤️

Rocco it was an honor to meet you, so friendly and sweet. Your were dad's best buddy and always ready for a road trip. May your journey at the rainbow bridge be a great one with lots of snacks and dogs to run around with. Hugs Rocco....
