“ Today, for us, the world is a different place. Sadder, emptier, quieter. My beautiful Seren died yesterday, unexpectedly. He was calm and gentle and loving, especially with the children. He was my touchstone, my calm center when I couldn't find it in myself. Wherever I was, there he was. He would nudge me when I was sad and dance with me when joy abounded. And now, when I am the most heartbroken, I have no grizzled face to turn to. His face is gone. But I am left with 14 years of memories of the gentlest soul I've had the privilege of sharing my life with. I'll see you later, my sweet boy. My buddy. My Seren ❤️😭
